Aseptico to support Climb For A Cause® fundraising effort for oral health treatment and education in developing nations

WOODINVILLE, WASHINGTON. – May 23, 2019 – Aseptico Inc. will join in the effort to raise funds for oral health education and treatment in developing nations around the world via its support of Climb For A Cause® (CFAC) when the non-profit foundation hosts its 22nd Annual Hiking Event the weekend of Sept.13–15 near Grand Teton National Park, Wyoming. Each year since 1998, CFAC has organized an Annual Hiking Event for dentists, their teams and industry participants, as a way to make a positive difference in the oral health of needy children.

“As the world’s leading portable dental equipment manufacturer, Aseptico works closely with humanitarian organizations aiding underserved populations. Working with CFAC helps us further our goal of bringing dental care to everyone and promoting oral health around the world,” said Chris Berry, Special Markets Manager for Aseptico, who will make the climb with the group.

Dentists and other enthusiasts will attempt a summit of Table Mountain in Wyoming’s Teton Range on Sept.13-15, 2019 to raise funds for oral health care in developing nations at the annual Climb For A Cause® event.

Climb For A Cause® will conduct 14 dental care volunteer group projects in 2019 in Cambodia, Laos, Guatemala, Nepal, India, Kenya, and Vietnam. Aseptico portable dental equipment including dental chairs, examination lamps, and portable dental delivery systems, portable x-ray systems and other dental equipment will be an essential part of these dental outreach projects.

Dental professionals and others interested in participating in the Climb For A Cause® annual Hiking Event, can learn more about this life-changing adventure by visiting the Climb For A Cause® website at: <http://www.climbforacause.org/>. As part of its sponsorship, Aseptico is offering to cover a large portion of the entry fee for those who choose to participate in the event.
